Staff Writer, New York
Daily News

Joe Williams, 35, covers the New York City school system for the New York Daily News, the fifth largest daily newspaper in America. Previously, he covered the Milwaukee Public Schools and Milwaukee's parental choice program for the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel.

He won numerous local and national awards for his coverage of school choice. His work has appeared in Education Next magazine and The San Diego Review, a comprehensive and analytical review of the reforms of San Diego Superintendent Alan Bersin.

Joe has served on panels at two National Charter School conferences and frequently speaks in public and on radio/television on education issues in New York City. His book on education politics, Cheating Our Kids, will be published by Palgrave Macmillan in October 2005.

Joe and his wife, Bridget, live in Manhattan with their two sons, both of whom attend New York City public schools.
